Applicable taxes

The prices of the products displayed on the Seller's web page include the Value Added Tax (VAT) which, where applicable, is applicable.

Purchases to be delivered within the territory of any of the member states of the European Union will be subject to VAT.

Purchases to be delivered to territories of non-European Union member states, or to the Canary Islands, Ceuta or Melilla will be exempt from VAT.

Method of payment

When placing the order, the customer may freely choose to pay for purchases by credit card [SPECIFY TYPES OF PAYMENT CARD]; cash on delivery (only in Spain and some European Union countries) or other similar means. In certain cases and in order to prevent possible fraud, the Seller reserves the possibility of requesting a specific form of payment from a customer in the event that the identity of the buyer is not reliably accredited. The website uses information security techniques generally accepted in the industry, such as firewalls, access control procedures and cryptographic mechanisms, all with the aim of preventing unauthorised access to data. To achieve these purposes, the user/customer agrees that the provider obtains data for the purpose of authentication of access controls. All contracting processes or processes involving the input of personal data (health, ideology,...) shall always be transmitted via secure communication protocol (HTTPS://) in such a way that no third party has access to the information transmitted electronically.

Delivery method, costs and delivery time

The customer may select the delivery method from those available for his delivery area. It should be noted that the delivery times, the quality of service, the delivery point and the cost will be different for each form of transport.

The Seller sends orders to its customers through different express transport companies of recognised national and international prestige. The delivery date at the customer's address depends on the availability of the chosen product and the delivery area. The approximate transport times are available in the section of our website "Shipping Costs". Before confirming your order, the customer will be informed of the approximate shipping costs and transport times that apply to your specific order. However, both may vary depending on the specific circumstances of each order. In particular:

Transport times may be altered by extraordinary incidents at the carrier and by difficulties in the delivery of the goods.

Delivery charges are free of charge for orders of £59.99 and above, orders below this amount will incur a £6 delivery charge.

Buyer's rights and return policy

The Seller guarantees its customers the availability of the products offered on its website.

The Seller guarantees its customers the possibility of cancelling their order at any time and free of charge provided that the cancellation is communicated before the order has been made available to the carrier for shipment.

The client will have a period of thirty days from the reception of the order to terminate the contract and return the purchased product. The client will communicate to the Seller within the stipulated period and by any means permitted by law, his wish to exercise the right to terminate the contract. The returned order must be delivered together with the delivery note and, if applicable, the invoice issued to the Seller, at the Buyer's expense.

The client may return any article that he/she has purchased from the Seller. In these cases, The Seller will return the purchase money by means of a credit to the credit card, by means of a bank transfer to the account indicated by the client or by means of a credit to the client's personal account.

If a product other than the one ordered by the customer is delivered by mistake by the Seller, it will be withdrawn and the correct product will be delivered at no additional charge to the buyer.
